In partnership with

FlowConnect

KU Children's Services is committed to the inclusion of children with additional needs and, in 2008, KU's Special Education Team supported over 750 funded children with additional needs to be included in KU Children's Services centres. Prior to being selected as the National ISS Provider, KU operated Inclusion Support Agencies and the ISS Program in seven diverse NSW regions. Through these contracts, KU supported almost half of NSW's eligible child care services to create high quality care environments that are inclusive of all children, including children with ongoing high support needs.
